Building a Better Gwinnett

1 Document. 10 Priorities. 1 Direction.

Key Messages for the Strategic Priority for Parents and Guardians...

- The schools cannot do it alone. Families must be partners in their student’s education.
- Students are most successful when parents/guardians reinforce high expectations for learning and behavior.
- When families and teachers communicate about common concerns and share ideas and information, children benefit.
- Regular attendance, personal responsibility, and hard work translate to student success. High expectations and encouragement from parents/guardians can reinforce these characteristics in kids.
- The more that families know about their child’s school, the school’s improvement plans, and school system initiatives to support student achievement, the more confidence they have in their school and the more supportive they are of GCPS.
